

Today in the Quad-Cities

Some stores open July 4

Quad-Citians will mark the July 4th holiday in a shutdown of most stores and many stores and businesses. For many, the occasion will mean a three-day weekend holiday.

Departing from the usual custom of a general shutdown of business, however, some plan to remain open for business Friday, particularly in outlying shopping center areas. Most downtown Granite City stores will close.

Stores that plan to close tomorrow will open on Saturday.

There will be no mail delivery Friday, but the post offices in Granite City, Madison and Venuie will open at regular hours Saturday. Mail will be delivered to homes on Saturday.

All area banks and savings and loan firms will be closed for the three-day weekend, as will all local, county, state and federal offices.

Pools near power lines dangerous

Four cases in which Granite Cityans will be required to change the location of swimming pools have developed during the recent warm weather because the pools are located in poor overhanging power lines. City Building Inspector Robert Kelly reported today.

Kelly said that any swimming pool located within less than a permanently installed one that is located within 12 feet of a power line is in violation of the National Electrical Code on which city ordinances are based.

Persons using swimming pools located within less than the specified 12 feet are endangered by the possibility of a failing power line, Kelly said.

Weather outlook for this region

Clear to partly cloudy today with little temperature change through Friday. Highs today and Friday about 90. Low temperatures upper 60s through Saturday through Monday with highs in the 80s and lows in the low 70s.

Urge first steps in sewer program

By HARRY BARNES
Press-Record Staff Writer

A recommendation that Granite City initiate immediate full-time program of sanitary sewer mapping as the first step in solving mounting sewer problems in the Nameoki area was presented to the City Council in a special meeting last night.

A plan to provide maintenance of the present sewer system through televising and grouting operations was proposed in a report by the Sewerdrain, a Parcell and Associates engineering firm of St. Louis which has been making a survey of the city's sewer system and methods of combatting a number of year-long breaks for nearly a year.

The recommendations were made in the engineering report and by the Community Resources Commission appointed by Mayor Paul Schuler. The resources commission, headed by Carl E. Mathias urged that immediate action be taken.

Basically, the report recommends televising and grouting equipment at a cost that should approximate $50,000, and to employ three additional men to operate the equipment and to conduct a full-time maintenance program. The televising equipment permits an inside view of sewer lines and can determine the location of wierspots and prospective breaks.

A review of the groundwater problems which are considered primarily responsible for 43 sanitary sewer line breaks in early 1973 was presented by Dr. Robert Koepke, geology professor at Southern Illinois that Granite City Township "is without lawful authority to assess the evaluation of taxes upon, and to provide governmental provisions to any territory annexed by the city of Granite City," after July 1, 1971.

It called for an order to direct the clerks to refuse to direct the records to where they were on July 1, 1971, and for the county treasurer "to pay over to Nameoki Township and appropriate taxing bodies tax monies in his possession in connection with property annexed subsequent to July 1, 1971, by the city of Granite City from Nameoki Township."

No money is made to have taxes collected in past years ordered transferred to Nameoki Township.

Granite City and Granite City Township have been established as co-extensive entities, and are the same boundaries. Alton is the only other co-extensive city and township in Madison County.

Laws governing co-extensive cities and townships provide that property annexed by the city automatically becomes part of the co-extensive township.

The problem came when the new laws, constituting a referendum adopted which requires public referendums in both townships effected by a proposed annexation.

Runge notes that "the terms of the appropriate section of the Illinois Constitution and the (state) statutes are in conflict and any dissolution or division of a township without a referendum in each township effected is contrary to the terms of the 1970 Constitution."

He also cited a legal opinion issued by Dean Sween, a member of the staff of Nicholas G. Byron, Madison County State's Attorney, which states that the township annexations since 1971 are void.

Sweet based his opinion upon a Sangamon County ruling, which is not binding in Madison County. Byron called the opinion "a reasonable opinion" and said his office would research the question further. He said, however, "We probably will stick by the decision."

"We will this week find an article in the Illinois Township Officials' Magazine regarding a similar annexation case in the city of Zion, Ill., concerning Benton Township, in Lake County, which now is being appealed to the Illinois Supreme Court."

A Circuit Court there ruled that township annexation could not be made without a referendum in each township in the affected areas approved of the action.

The judge based his decision upon a provision of the new state constitution which says that annexations can not be "consolidated, merged, dissolved or divided" without referendum approval of the action.

Tri-City first in area to install computer checkout

By GARY KERBEL
Press-Record Staff Writer

The cash register noises are gone.

Because to a computer, checkout clerks in Tri-City grocery stores won't have to operate large cash registers with receipt tape.

Beginning next week, the Tri-City Grocery Store in Bellemore Village Shopping Center, 3250 Nameoki Road, will become the first store in the St. Louis area to check out food items with the IBM 3660 Supermarket System computer.

"The computerized system will speed checkouts and provide a better service by listing the name of each item on a display terminal and on the receipt tape," Kim Stewart, assistant to Tri-City's president, said.

In addition to identifying purchases for the customer, the computer totals the total number of purchases of individual items so that the grocery store can keep a detailed account of what has been sold.

"We believe the system will help us manage our inventory more efficiently," S. E. Pearson, the computerized system

"sent friendly letter."

The council accepted his resignation and placed the report on file for future reference.

In other action, the council gave the Illinois Police Commission a gas main between 10th Street and Lee Avenue, with the stipulation all work must be coordinated and approved by Superintendent of Streets Elmer Smith, and the Illinois Association of Municipalities to furnish 100 tons of blacktop at $1.85 a ton, upon a total of $2,705 in bills in the general fund from June 18 to July 1, $16,585 in the revenue fund fuel tax fund.

Alfred J. Kozalek of the Third Ward reported that the Finance Committee has been meeting with the Police and Street Departments on the new budget. He said that the committee will make recommendations to the council.

The report gave the address of the property allegedly violated, and the system for corrective action at very high, high, medium and low. Violations were listed in four areas: trash and debris, junk cars, yards and buildings, followed by comments of the inspector.

Some of the inspector's comments were "appears junky but not 'real junkers,'" "a big mess," "a super mess," Kozalek said.

Madison health inspector files report, resigns

By CASIMI KRAKOWIECKI, Madison health inspector for the past month, turned in to the Madison City Council Tuesday night a seven-page report listing 166 alleged health violations, 121 of which were still then residing his position.

Krakowiecki, who said most of the addresses for which violations were listed were family residences, told the council that he had been with the West Madison area. He said his car overheated and he did not check that area.

The report, he said, represented many hours of driving, "up and down alleys" looking for violations.

He informed the council that with his teaching summer school, he did not have a job as a full-time job as health inspector. Krakowiecki told the council that he hoped to remain as the city's civil defense director.

Arrest 2 in SIUE parking lot theft

Two East St. Louis men have been charged with burglary on the campus of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville after being arrested by SIUE security officers in a high-speed chase on South University Drive.

Being held in Madison County Jail are Leon Johnson, 50, and Rubin Dansberry, 22. They are charged with burglarizing a Dodge van owned by Stephen East of Cottage Hills. Their bonds have been set at $10,000 each.

Security officers reported they observed the breakers on a car parked outside a bar on Main Street and Johnson and Dansberry transferred fishing gear and other items from the van to their automobile. When the officers attempted to stop the men, they fled from the parking lot, and two SIUE patrol cars gave pursuit.

According to Louis Zeroff Jr., an SIUE investigator, items which had been taken from the van were thrown from the St. Louis vehicle as the chase reached speeds of up to 100 miles per hour along South University Drive. The fleeing car was stopped before it reached Highway 157 south of the campus.

Police said SIUE Security is making a concerted effort to prevent auto burglaries on campus, and officers in plain clothes have been assigned to special duty for this purpose during the Mississippi River Festival season.

When the product, with the UPC face-down, is passed over an electronic scanner at the check-out aisles, the computer

will automatically figure

the code, draws the price

and tabulates the items at the individual checkout. It can do this simultaneously for all six aisles at Tri-City's Bellemore Village store.

Stewart said the system shall be used in all of Tri-City's stores.

When listing the specific items on the customer's receipt, the computer also stores that information in its memory. Store personnel may then have the computer add the total number of specific items and

Dave Huffstutter, manager of the Bellemore Village store, said, "Now we will be able to avoid having items out of stock, especially sale items, because we will be able to say, 'Well, we sold in previous similar sales.'

The new system also will speed check-cashing information so customers won't have to go to the store's counter

Each person cashing checks regularly will have a check-cashing number on a plastic card. The number will be seen by the computer, which will tell the store's checker whether the person's account is good.

If a person has a check-cashing limit, the computer will also subtract each check from that limit to keep a record of the amount cashed. This service will be provided in about six weeks at the Bellemore Village store.

The computer system, which will be used in all six stores this fall in Tri-City's Bellemore, costs, along with the computer, $200,000, $80,000, and $95,000, according to Stewart.

He said there are about 15 areas in the country in which the system operates, and estimates that fall, about 80 percent of the stores being checked out will be coded to be "read" by the computer.

He explained the coding is a series of vertical bars called the "UPC" or Universal Product Code (UPC). The bars are on the back or side of many grocery items. Beneath them are the numbers they represent. Regular prices are also stamped on the items.

The first series of the 10-digit code identify the product's manufacturer. The last five numbers describe the product. The 10-digit series for each product is stored in the computer's memory along with the price and the price of the product.

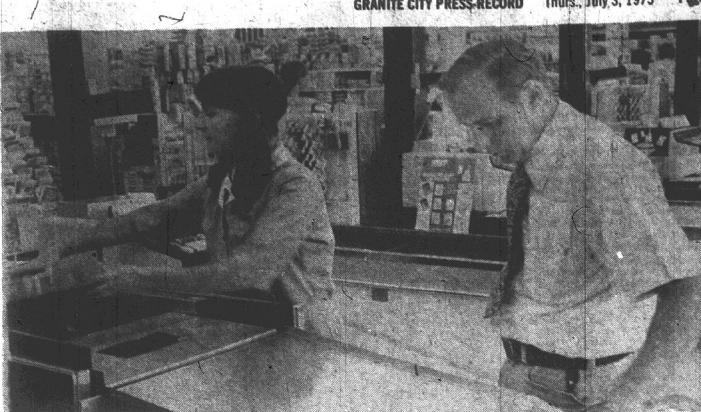

When the product, with the UPC face-down, is passed over an electronic scanner at the check-out aisles, the computer

will automatically figure

the code, draws the price

and tabulates the items at the individual checkout. It can do this simultaneously for all six aisles at Tri-City's Bellemore Village store.

Stewart said the system

Park offers bus ride to Six Flags

The Granite City Park District will provide transportation only for a trip to Six Flags Over Mid-America on Saturday, July 12.

A bus will leave Wilson Park (link park) at 8 a.m. on Saturday, July 12, returning about 3:30 p.m. Round-trip transportation will cost $3.25 per person.

Admission tickets into Six Flags will not be sold by the park district, but may be obtained by purchasing a ticket to the amusement park, or acquired in advance at reduced rates from local supermarkets. Michael Jessie, park district supervisor, said today.

Local park tickets from local stores cost $5.50 for children and adults, while admission at the park entrance is $7 for adults and $6.50 for children, the officer said.

Reservations for the bus may be made in advance of July 10 at the Wilson Park office. A capacity bus load is necessary for the trip to be made, Jessie said.

Further information concerning tickets or transportation may be obtained by calling the park office at 877-3059.

Two men, woman loot residence

Two men and a woman in a tan or light-colored Chevelolet El Camino, from Bandero were seen entering the home of Shirley Ridehoun, 137 Wilson Park Lane, and stealing a combination stereo and radio and a color television at 10:40 p.m. yesterday.

A neighbor reported she saw the three enter the home, but thought they were authorized to be there, so she did not report it. She said it entered, turned on the lights and the woman closed the draperies to the house.

They loaded the stolen items into the bed of the vehicle, covered them with a blanket and drove from the scene, she reported.

Chases suspects

Two 16-year-old boys were arrested and have been referred to the juvenile courts as the result of the actions of a man who alleged seeing them in a neighbor's auto at the Village Lane Apartments at 11:10 p.m. Monday and chased and caught them.

Fred Brooks, who lives in the apartments, said he saw the youths get out of the auto of John Robbers, 3929 Village Lane, and flee on foot to the east.

Brooks said he chased in his car until the teens ran into a field, after which he chased them on foot. He said they crossed Pontoon Road before he caught them. He called them to the apartments and summoned police who arrested them. They were charged with attempted theft.

Nothing was stolen from the auto, it was noted.

Bicentennial program to aid cities in planning future

Do people living in the thousands of small towns across the country have any control over the future of their way of life, a way that has been the backbone of this nation throughout its history?

Can citizens of these small cities and towns take advantage of modern science and technology to plan for their future?

The belief they can is behind an ambitious Bicentennial project called "Century 3 Communities Program." The program has been granted major recognition by the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration.

CCP, for short, will help communities design and build a "Community Survival Warning System" to set long-term goals and build consensus around them. The programs will be backed by some of the technology and decision-making tools developed by big government business since World War II.

The tools range from a new kind of card file to a computer, and from a community fair to cable television. Different approaches will be used in different communities according to their needs and resources.

Directed by The Institute, a non-profit organization with headquarters in Dickerson, Maryland, CCP will involve 13 specific towns across the country during the Bicentennial era. Programs and processes will be developed to help the original 13 communities will be available to any other interested locality.

What will participation in the program bring a community?

First, the CCP staff will supply guidance and technical assistance in designing their program.

Second, the program will maintain experienced consultants on call for social problems.

Third, for communities that wish to adapt computers and other sophisticated technology to their uses, the staff will provide the hardware and circulate proposals for funding from other sources.

Communities will have to fund their own activities but will pay no money to the program's staff.

The 13 communities of less than 25,000 people will be selected by July 1976 and will officially start off their local programs with community fairs July 4, 1976. The institute will continue assisting in the efforts over a three-year period, at which time a community can choose to keep going on its own.

The institute was founded in late 1971 to develop and disseminate practical techniques for small communities, small businesses, individuals and various organizations to help cope with social and technological change.

The 13 states of CCP was funded by the Bicentennial Council of the Thirteen Original States, The Franklin Mint Corporation, and the National Science Foundation. The institute is actively seeking additional funding to help carry out the remainder of the program.

Communities interested in participating in the program or wanting additional information may contact Mark H. Wilson, CCP, Box 174, Route 1, Dickerson, Maryland 20745.

Woman suffrage in Illinois

Ratification of the women suffrage amendment to the U.S. Constitution in 1919 by the Illinois legislature was an anti-climax. The real battle in the Prairie State had been fought and won by the passage of the Presidential and Municipal Woman suffrage did not come easily. The first woman suffrage association was organized in Earthville in 1855. The Civil War provided an impetus for the movement when it forced the state's women into new and sometimes painful roles. With their husbands and fathers away at war, women discovered themselves capable of functioning independently, individuals.

Thus, Mother Mary Bickerdike and Mary Jane Safford went into battle as army nurses, and Mary Thompson was named head of the Women's Hospital of Women and Children.

During the war years, Chicago Mary Livermore hired a housekeeper to care for her family so she could devote full time to the Chicago Sanitary Commission. Her previous experience had included working and editing her Universalist minister husband's newspaper, New Covenant, and she saw war as an opportunity for the "regeneration" of society.

Thus, in 1868 Mrs. Livermore organized the Illinois Women's Suffrage Association. The group met in Library Hall, Chicago. The first president was Mary Livermore, and she founded a women's rights newspaper, The Agitator, and was elected vice president of the American Women's Suffrage Association at its organizational convention in late 1869.

The war women began actively organizing at the state and national levels which became more involved in social causes in the 1890s. More was at stake than just the vote. At the close of the war Illinois had virtually no civil rights. The age of consent was 10 years, and a woman's legal identity was suspended with marriage. Such professions as law were closed, and women had no right to equal guardianship of their children or to control of their earnings. By 1900 those restrictions had been lifted, one by one often as a result of lobbying by members of the Illinois Woman Suffrage Association. Women were made eligible for some appointive offices and for such elective school offices as the University of Illinois Board of Trustees.

The 1913 bill was the same one brought to Springfield every year since 1890 by IWSA legislative representative Catharine Waugh McCullough. The 1913 session of the legislature (the first and last time) met 26 Progressives and three Socialists — all of whom voted for the measure and provided the margin of victory. Although more Republicans than Democrats voted for it, it was not a strict party line vote.

Illinois was the first state east of the Mississippi and the first in the Mississippi basin to extend suffrage to women. The precedent was an important one in general national support for the 19th amendment by which all women got the vote.

Drives at 3 schools to be paved

The Granite City Board of Education has voted to pave driveways at three schools, including the two high schools.

Kaminski Excavating Co. was selected as low bidder to do all the work for $23,886. Bids from two other firms were higher. C. D. Peters bid $39,645 and Masters Asphalt bid $40,295.

The work includes paving all of the drive at Granite City High School North, from Maryville Road to the drainage ditch, and then paving the drive with a 20-inch wide drive into and through the main parking lot. The parking lot itself is not to be paved at this time.

At GCHS South, the back driveways on Nameoki Road will be paved with the driveway continuing through the parking lot. A paved drive also will begin on Nameoki Road and will continue to the front (gymnasium) parking lot.

An asphalt overlay also is to be placed on the sidewalks on the Grand Avenue side of GCHS South.

The other school included in the work is Emerson School in which a one and one-half asphalt overlay is to be placed over the present asphalt playground.

The board also awarded contracts to two firms to repair the brickwork at GCHS South and at Niedringhaus School. The bids were considered at the board's previous meeting, but no award was given because of questions concerning the number of square feet to be repaired at each school.

On the recommendation of Tully A. Heubner, director of business affairs for the school district, the board decided instead, to use a sandblasting method, concentrating on the joints, to remove loose mortar at Niedringhaus School and to clean the building.

Worthington Brick Contracting Co. was selected to do the work on a contract for $11,860.

Selected for tuckpointing of damaged walls at GCHS South was Jay Russell Waterproofing Co. at $4,916.

Twenty firms were selected to supply boys' and girls' physical education supplies for the 1975-76 school year with contracts totaling $11,000. The firms selected, and the amount of the contract awarded to each, are:

Bear Archery $412; Cohn Athletic $1,976; Dekan Timing $675; GSC Athletic $374; Ecoline Sporting Goods $621; Illinois Sporting Goods $849; Hadar, Inc. $238; JL Hammatt $2,673; J&N Distributors $893; Kato Supplies $14; Nielsen $314; and F. E. Suddeth $108.

Premier Athletic $78; RAM Athletic $145; Salach Recreation $107; Sauk Valley $449; Tappo Sporting Goods $2,184; Thopp from Beel $367; Titus $1,000; and West Coast $145.

Steans Concrete Contracting Co. was the lowest bidder to specifications to replace damaged sidewalk in front of the school.

The contract for $4,862 is to replace a sidewalk 10 feet wide and 508 feet long. Three other bids were rejected and one was withdrawn.

Twenty additional athletic benches to be used for all sports at GCHS North were ordered from Stadiums Unlimited Co., the lowest bidder to specifications, for $817. Six items bid on supplying the benches.

McKnight Publishing Co., Bloomington, was selected to provide books necessary for junior high school educational programs. The $2,391 contract for 10 books includes $115 for Coolidge, $31 for Grigsby and $115 for Prather.

A purchase of six team uniforms and four warm-up

Brian Earney is promoted

Brian Earney, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Earney, 2874 Ralph St., has been promoted from Seaman to boatswain's mate 3rd Class.

Earney is stationed on the destroyer escort U.S.S. Brumby in the Pacific Fleet which participated in the Mayaguez incident.

He has been in the Navy three years after graduating at Granite City High School in 1971.

ackets for girls' sports teams from Broderick Co., Parsons, Kan., for $311 also was approved.

Seven firms were selected as low bidders to supply records and books to the three schools in the district. Contracts were to be record center for $257, Folkraft for $18, Merrbach for $74, Webster for $89, Educational Audiovisual, Inc., $14, Kato and Lyons for $100, and $100.

The board was told the low bidder on a calculator, which had received a contract at the previous board meeting, was unable to supply a calculator to measure the distance to meet the specifications.

The board decided to award a contract of $429 to the second lowest bidder, Singer Business Co., for the calculators.

Heubner reported bids on roofing work have been difficult to analyze due to many options given by the roofers. The board decided to reject all bids received and to use more specific specifications for the work in seeking new bids.

Three companies were named

Mark A. Scaturo in Navy exercise

Navy Seaman Apprentice Mark A. Scaturo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard J. Scaturo, 4047 Kathy Drive, Porton, Maryland, participated in "Solid Shield," a joint-service exercise near the Marine Corps Base, Camp Lejeune, N.C.

He took part in training which included training in the sea, simulated amphibious assault, weapons employment and various support activities.

The exercise involved units of the Navy, Army, Air Force, the Marine Corps and Coast Guard. It was designed to test the operational readiness and coordination of air, ground and sea-going elements within the U.S. Atlantic Command.

Scaturo served aboard the destroyer escort U.S.S. Brumby, homeported at Charleston, S.C.

He was appraised by Morris Realty Co. at $784.

as suppliers for paint the district may purchase as needed. The firms are Feagans Paint Co., Pratt & Lambert Inc., and P.P.G. Industries, Inc.

Don Shaffner, off-campus contractor, received a board ratification contract with Joseph's School of Hair Fashions and the Granite City School of Beauty Culture to continue to have students train at the schools. The cost will remain at $100 per student for each of five semesters, the same as last year's contract.

The board concurred on the recommendation.

Bills paid out included $21,085 from the educational fund, $4,635 from the building fund, $4,635 in federal funds, $1,201 from the joint agreement fund, $73,670 from the transportation fund and $600 for teacher tuition reimbursements. Cafeteria fund expenditures total $55,727.

GRADUATION CEREMONIES at Venice Lincoln Technical Center were held at the school for 11 nurse side graduates, six persons receiving their high school diplomas and 17 receiving GED (high school equivalency) certificates. Robert Vickers, standing, superintendent of Venice schools, congratulates the graduates on their accomplishments. Seated next to Vickers is Rev. Norman Owens, pastor of the Macedonia Baptist Church of East St. Louis, and seated at far right is Dr. Wayne Giles, director of the adult and continuing education section, Illinois Office of Education.

McCauley-Kuback nuptials at Sacred Heart Church

Miss Sheila Sue Kuback, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Kuback, 2805 Idaho, and Frederick McCauley, son of Mrs. Delphine McCauley, 3819 Cookson Road, Fairmont City, were united in marriage in an early afternoon ceremony on June 23 at Sacred Heart Catholic Church.

Altar bouquets of summer blossoms and burning tapers in alabaster standards provided the setting for the double ring service performed by Father James Hill.

Mrs. Jack Karbarski and Paul Mabry sang "Come Jesus, Holy Son of God," "Wedding Prayer," "Gloria," "Thy Praise," "My Lord, Thy Faithfulness Abideth Ever" and "Be Thou My Vision." They were accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Isabel Schmidt.

Given away by her father, the bride wore a full-length gown of ivory peau de soie, featuring a fitted bodice enhanced with re-embroidered Alencon lace etched with crystal.

The neckline was high and the long tapered sleeves were applied with lace motifs. Matching jeweled lace medallions decorated the A-line skirt and bordered the full sweep train.

A crown created of crystal and pearls held in place a long veil of bridal illusion. She carried a colonial bouquet of white orchids, stephanotis and greenery.

Honor attendant Miss Dawn Oram and bridesmaids Miss Diana Blevins, Miss Vicki McCauley, a sister of the groom, Mrs. Cheriene Paine, Miss Joanie Voloski, Miss Kathy Ramer, Miss Carla Voloski and the flower girl, Lisa Bequet, all cousins of the bride, wore identical gowns of apricot chiffon.

Mr. Kuback, the bride's mother, was attired in a long chocolate brown gown with matching accessories. The groom's mother, Mrs. McCauley, chose orange and white formal-length dress complemented with white variegated orange colored roses.

The former Miss Kuback graduated from Granite City High School and Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, where she received a bachelor of science degree.

An Assumption High School graduate, the groom is now employed as a crane operator at Granite City Steel.

Their dresses were made with scoop necklines, shirred sleeves, high rise waistlines and long skirts.

Baby's breath was attached to matching ribbons and worn on the bodice of each attire. The bride held an armful bouquet of varicolored carnations centered with roses.

David Lilly, a cousin of the groom, served as the best man. Accompanying the bride of the groom, Rich Marovich, Dennis and Joe Martinez, cousins of the groom, Jerry Serwach and Charles Voloski, the bride's cousins, Robert Galas, the groom's brother-in-law, and Tom Guido, completed the corps of groomsmen and ushers.

Robbie Galas, a nephew of the groom, was the ringbearer. Serving as candlelighters were cousins of the bride, Karen and Sharon Voloski.

The reception was held at 6 o'clock in the evening at the Croatian Home, Madison, attended by 500 guests. Miss Kathy Voloski, the bride's cousin, presided over the guest book.

Papes, 2653 Center St., and Kirby H. Whiteside and Mrs. W. H. Whiteside, Rural Route One, Caseyville, was solemnized on June 20 at Sacred Heart Roman Catholic Church.

Father James Hill officiated at the double ring ceremony at 6 o'clock in the evening, before an altar decked with bouquets of pink gladiolas and white and orchid pompons. Hurricane lamps festooned with greenery and white ribbons, holding lighted candles, illuminated the aisle.

Narrow Val lace embellished the high neckline, molded bodice and long tapered sleeves of the white peau de soie gown worn by the bride.

An A-line silhouette skirt enhanced with Val lace fell gracefully from an empire waist.

She wore a matching Val lace jacket, edged with silver braid. She wore matching accessories.

Mr. Whiteside, the groom's mother, was attired in a long, chocolate brown gown with matching accessories.

The groom's mother, Mrs. McCauley, chose orange and white formal-length dress complemented with white variegated orange colored roses.

The former Miss Kuback graduated from Granite City High School and Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, where she received a bachelor of science degree.

An Assumption High School graduate, the groom is now employed as a crane operator at Granite City Steel.

Mr. and Mrs. Kirby H. Whiteside

each attendant carried a white plateau basket filled with white peau de soie and pink pompons, pink braid and greenery.

Following the arrival of the bride, the groom's mother, Mrs. McCauley, served as ring bearer.

Given away by her father, the bride wore a full-length gown of ivory peau de soie, featuring a fitted bodice enhanced with re-embroidered Alencon lace etched with crystal.

The neckline was high and the long tapered sleeves were applied with lace motifs. Matching jeweled lace medallions decorated the A-line skirt and bordered the full sweep train.

A crown created of crystal and pearls held in place a long veil of bridal illusion. She carried a colonial bouquet of white orchids, stephanotis and greenery.

Honor attendant Miss Dawn Oram and bridesmaids Miss Diana Blevins, Miss Vicki McCauley, a sister of the groom, Mrs. Cheriene Paine, Miss Joanie Voloski, Miss Kathy Ramer, Miss Carla Voloski and the flower girl, Lisa Bequet, all cousins of the bride, wore identical gowns of apricot chiffon.

Five awards were received by Unit 51 members, Mrs. Petras said. Those earning state citations were Mrs. Betty Wilkins, Mrs. Linda Brockman, Mrs. Linda Sanders and Mrs. Trudy McGowan, who received two awards.

Mrs. Brockman, senior vice president, reviewed results of the election of state officers. Mrs. Joan Hanson, first vice president, reported visitors to Madison County Nursing Home and the Shelter Care facility in Edwardsville to deliver arts and crafts donations from the unit.

Mrs. Hanson also made a trip to St. John's Children's Home in Belleville, taking soda and candy to the youthful residents. She was accompanied by Mrs. Karen Deen.

Servicemen from the Granite City area will receive cards and a subscription to the Press-Record, Mrs. Barbara Smith, Serve-Our-Servicemen and CARE chairman, announced.

A barbecue is planned Friday at the Post Home and a bake sale is being arranged for late July. Mrs. Wilkins, ways and means chairman, said.

Flags shortly will be presented to a Brownie troop and the children's home in Belleville, Mrs. Deen, Americanism chairman, reported.

Girls' sports to be gradually expanded

Guidelines approved by the Granite City Board of Education in May 1974 for the administration and operation of the girls' sports program will remain in effect during the 1975-76 school year except for the following:

A. Scheduled competition will be limited to field hockey, tennis, volleyball, basketball and track.

B. Those sports identified as intramural will be permitted to enter the appropriate Illinois High School Association tournament series upon the recommendation of the adviser. The sports in 1975-76, bowls and softball, are in 1975-76, archery, gymnastics and badminton in 1976-77.

C. The maximum number of contests that may be scheduled in each of the approved sports will be increased from the present six to a choice of one of the following: 10 single contests; nine single contests and one tournament, or eight single contests and two tournaments, one of which would be the IHSA tournament series.

1. A tournament will be permitted as any contest or invitational meet requiring an entry fee and/or normally requires more than one trip to complete.

2. Any invitational tournament and/or meet involving girls and conducted by a District No. 9 school must be approved by the IHSA and the district consultant and the building principal concerned, inasmuch as IHSA assumes responsibility for funding.

D. The approved travel for scheduled contest will be increased from the present 35 to a radius of 50 miles.

E. An award program for varsity participants will be developed.

F. The number of advisers assigned to any sport in each school will remain at one, with the exception of track, and a position of assistant track adviser will be established.

Because of the number of participants the diversity of skills to be developed, and the large area to be supervised, an additional person is considered essential for the safety and well-being of the track participants.

G. The guidelines qualified women physical educators are not available to head any of the approved girls sports, the vacancies will be made available to any qualified teacher, male or female, in accordance with current procedures governing the selection and assignment of all extra-curricular personnel.

The guidelines outlined will remain in effect throughout the 1975-76 school year, and the total program again will be reviewed and evaluated by the Board of Education by the close of school in June.

Miss Karch, consultant for physical education, told the School Board last week that "factual information concerning Title IX guidelines is even more vague than was presented last year."

"However, largely due to the precipitous action of IHSA in establishing state tournaments in girls sports, programs have mushroomed to unbelievable proportions."

"The degree of real student interest is still difficult to evaluate because of the element of novelty in the uniforms and the travel."

"Most of our own girls are reluctant to commit themselves to a practice and game schedules that prevents active involvement in other school activities."

"With possibly one exception, there is little if any expressed interest on the part of the faculty, student body or citizens in the girls' games."

"In fact, I counted less than 25 fans at Mount Olive when South's girls' basketball team played for a super-sectional title."

"I feel that when Title IX guidelines are released — and if for no other reason than economics — there will be considerable leveling off and even cutbacks in the next year or two."

"Regardless of what our neighboring schools are doing, it is my opinion that our adviser and our staff, facilities, nor talent to get into a broad-scale interschool program at this time."

Police alleged when they stopped the car the police knowledge, the majority of the women's staff and our student leaders want to continue again next year much as we are doing."

"On behalf of the staff and students, I want to express our deep appreciation to the administration and the board for confidence and support in allowing us to move as we are doing best. It has been an interesting one in which all of us have begun to appreciate the work as compared to the glory in coaching."

Miss Karch reviewed the 1974-75 girls' sports program as follows:

1. Both North and South competed in field hockey, tennis, volleyball, basketball, and track. There were 19 sports in all for a total of 49 contests.

In basketball and volleyball "A" & "B" (Varsity, JV) games were played at each contest. Approximately 80 different girls were members of one or more teams at South, and 60 at North.

Intramural competition, preceding selection of varsity teams, was conducted in a total of 12 sports at South and nine at North.

2. Each high school played in IHSA tournaments in tennis, volleyball, bowing and track (the only four held this year).

South's Robin Deterding added to state and regional volleyball team won both the district and sectional tournaments.

North's bowling team won the district but lost in the first round at state, which was eventually won by a team consisting of four boys and one girl.

The latter has resulted in a regulation by IHSA that may not participate in any IHSA tournament designed solely for boys and girls.

3. Each junior high school fielded both 7th and 8th grade basketball, and volleyball, 7th in soccer and 8th grade speedway. These teams played each other on a home-and-home basis in each sport.

In addition the annual junior high school all track meet continued, being held at the South track in late May.

4. All teams were coached by women; however, only three of the available women who were available were used for the boys by the end of the year.

Miss Karch concluded that "without the ready cooperation and advice of Athletic Director Joseph Fedora, all members of our staff, and the help of the athletic trainer, the year would not have gone as smoothly as it did."

other officials (scorers, timers) were paid.

6. One set of team uniforms and one set of warm-ups were purchased by each high school and used by all sports teams; junior high schools wore physical education uniforms.

Most all area schools had uniforms provided by IHSA at the end of the year; a number had additional uniforms, including shoes, for track.

7. Any awards given for varsity team participation were implemented in 1975-76 and are to be given by the Illinois High School Association in the two high schools. Ribbon awards and felt patches were provided junior high schools from the athletic budget.

It is anticipated that the IHSA will have established seasons (as they now have for boys) by the end of the year.

Miss Karch concluded that

schedule more contests.

Among larger high schools, particularly in the Chicago suburban area, 9-12 different schools are playing 8-10 matches per sport.

8. Four additional IHSA state tournaments for girls are to be implemented in 1975-76 and are to be held in basketball, tennis, and softball, and four more in 1976-77 — archery, badminton, basketball and gymnasics.

It is anticipated that the IHSA will have established seasons (as they now have for boys) by the end of the year.

Miss Karch concluded that

EPA-Granite City Steel agreement is confirmed

Francis T. Mayo, Region V administrator of the U.S. EPA yesterday released official notification of the agency's intent with the Granite City Steel division of National Steel Corp., by which the steel company will install a pushing control system on its coke ovens to reduce particulate emissions in the Granite City area.

Granite City is located in the metropolitan St. Louis air quality control region, an area in which particulates presently exceed the health-related standard.

Mayo said "this agreement, which is embodied in a federal consent order, will significantly reduce emissions from the pushing side of the coke ovens, as required by Illinois Rule 203."

James O. McDonald, director of the EPA's Region V enforcement division, stated that the agreement would bring the GC steel in line with other coke steel plants in Illinois—Rueblo Steel and International Harvester, Wisconsin Steel Division—which are installing pollution controls for pushing operations on their coke ovens pursuant to federal consent orders.

Negotiations presently are underway with Interlake, Inc., for a pushing control program. The latter three companies are located in the Chicago area. Pushing, Mayo said, is a process where coke ovens where metallurgical coal, which has been baked for many hours to drive off impurities to form coke, is pushed from an oven into an open steel car.

The coke may react with the oxygen in the air to form carbonaceous heavy black smoke.

The control method chosen by the company is the technology based in part on the Weitzen system, named because it was developed at the Weitzen Steel Division of National Steel Corporation, with partial federal EPA funding.

According to the agreed upon schedule, the system will be installed by mid 1977.

The Illinois EPA issued a construction permit for this system on May 19, 1975, and this compliance schedule started the installation schedule.

The U.S. EPA issued a notice of violation to the source in March of 1974. This agreement, the culmination of that enforcement action, Mayo said.

Donald C. Clegg, vice-president of GC Steel, said that the company appreciates the cooperation of the U.S. EPA enforcement division in reaching a decision which will permit the company to go forward with this part of its air pollution control program.

GC Steel also issued a release yesterday, saying: "Dr. Cairns today expressed appreciation to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency for the cooperation of its enforcement division in reaching a decision making it possible for us to go forward with an important part of our air pollution control program, the installation of a coke oven emission control system, in-works at Granite City Steel."

"As previously announced, the U.S. EPA has approved an installation schedule under which Granite City Steel is to have two coke ovens installed and in operation by June 30, 1977. A construction permit has been issued by the Illinois EPA.

"The control of emissions from coke ovens is pushed from an oven into an open steel car to the cruise ship CIA Director William E. Colby and other intelligence agency chiefs, including the head of the FBI and the National Security Agency.

Administration officials say President Ford is in the process of creating an intelligence car to oversee the work of CIA Director William E. Colby and other intelligence agency chiefs, including the head of the FBI and the National Security Agency.

President Ford has signed a housing bill which is a compromise between what he wanted and a bill that passed the Senate, but he vetoed last week. The new measure gives financial support to home builders and pays up to $500 a month in mortgage payments to help recession-hit homeowners facing foreclosures.

Road construction companies in Wisconsin and Champaign were each fined $20,000 yesterday in U.S. District court for conspiring to restrain the sale of Illinois and the federal government. The two companies submitted inflated bids for road work in Douglas County so a third firm would be the bidder.

Beginning at 6 p.m. today between 400 and 500 persons may die in traffic crashes on the July 4 weekend, which ends at midnight Sunday. The Illinois Consensus said 450 persons died last year during a comparable Independence Day weekend. Normal weekend deaths in July average 430 persons.

Madison County has one of the highest crime index rates in Illinois, a member of the Madison County Board said on April 26. He also said there is a lot of heroin in the area, and it is of a better grade than in Chicago and New York.

The Daley faction in return, was instrumental in scuttling Walker's Accelerated Building Program, the governor's multi-billion plan to shore up a long-term construction program financed through long-term borrowing.

In the end, the General Assembly ignored Walker's request that his March budget proposal be cut by $1 billion and sent him instead a budget of millions of dollars larger.

Preliminary figures show the legislature approved a budget some $1 billion less than Walker's $3.8 billion proposed budget of millions of dollars once the defeated Accelerated Building Program is subtracted.

Lawmakers approved a scheme to give Walker the authority to impound up to 8 percent of all general revenue fund appropriations in order to forestall a budget deficit.

Walker, however, has given clear notice he plans to use his authority to veto to trim the appropriations measures and send them back to the legislature.

A legislative session has been set for Oct. 22 to consider veto overrides.

Amid the confusion and jockeying for political advantage, most legislation designed to aid consumers was voted and proposals by environmental groups were scuttled.

Legislators voted to give themselves a pension increase that could hike benefits as much as $3,000 a year, and added more than $100 million worth of special interest amendments onto the $2.4 billion budget for the Department of Transportation.

In the closing session Tuesday, lawmakers agreed to an amendatory veto by the governor which would allow betting this summer at the DuQuoin Fair.

A special session at limiting malpractice lawsuits, which may have the effect of holding down soaring medical costs and malpractice insurance premiums for physicians, was passed. The new limits would apply to $60,000 per year.

The only tax relief bill to be passed in recent years gives $34 million worth of rebates to senior citizens in the form of grants to those with incomes under $10,000 per year.

The legislature also acted to equalize property taxes in all counties at 3.3 per cent of fair market value.

The House defeated a proposal to ban the use of Rooster Calvo (D-Granite City) which would have permitted Madison County to split off from the East Side Levee District if 10 percent of the legal residents within the district voted to do so.

Both bills passed the House in the more conservative Senate.

Both defeated was a bill backed by the state's minimum wage and two bills to help workers' compensation benefits.

Unemployment compensation benefits were hiked to a maximum of $135 per married person with dependents.

Achievement night for 58'ers

Local achievement night for members of the 58'ers Club was held last week at St. John United Church of Christ. Featured were a review of clothing projects and demonstrations made by girls who participated in the county contest in Edwardsville.

Those modeling clothing were Lisa Griffey, skirt and scarf; Eddie Schillinger, jumper; Helen Goss, skirt and blouse; and Linda Dyer, smock and pant skirt. Committee was the club president, Susan Sigit.

Food demonstrations were given by Eddie Schillinger, a toss salad; Diane Long, Quiche or ham cheese dip; Laura Jenness, shaker pudding; Tracey Johnson, deviled eggs; Shannon Bushee, oatmeal cookies and Susan Basarich, quince lorraine.

Parents also demonstrated their projects at a meeting of the Trio homemakers unit on Tuesday.

After the pledges and reports each girl answered roll call by introducing her project.

Mrs. Irvin Grakaloff, a member of Trio Unit, was a special guest. A birthday song was sung to Kelly Ault and Mrs. Joyce Jenness.

County achievement days will be held July 10 and 11. Girls planning to attend were asked

Largest state deficit in history—Lindberg

State government spent $138 million more than it took in for its day-to-day operations during the fiscal year that ended June 30, Comptroller George W. Lindberg said.

"This means that we have just recorded the largest general funds deficit in Illinois history," Lindberg noted.

The previous deficit high was in fiscal 88, a census year that led to the state income tax in 1988, the comptroller noted.

"We are about to exhaust the fiscal surplus created by passage of the income tax," Lindberg said. "The reason the state's financial condition is so precarious now is that for the past 12 months spending has exceeded income in record proportions."

Fiscal 1987 marked the end of three successive years when revenues exceeded expenditures, Lindberg said. "This is distressing, because the growth in the state's income was the greatest in fiscal 1987 since the first year of the income tax."

"What we now face, in light of the state's fiscal performance in 1987 and the governor's planned deficit in 1988, is the possibility that the state could be in serious cash trouble again."

THEFT FROM AUTO

James Taylor at MRF tonight

James Taylor, performing tonight at the Mississippi River Festival on the campus of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, considers himself a "product of a haphazard musical environment."

Judging from Taylor's success in the difficult world of rock music, the environment suited him well.

Taylor, whose albums and singles have sold well for the past year, is one of the music's consistent stars. Although his first album, "James Taylor," was criticized by some as being overproduced and over-orchestrated, subsequent albums have met consistent critical praise.

In 1974 Taylor produced his first major album success, "Sweet Baby James." The success of that album, and its top-selling single "Fire and Rain," made Taylor a household name.

Phoebe Snow, who was to appear as a special guest artist with Taylor, will not be able to attend, it was announced this week.

Taylor's new album, just released, is expected to meet the critical demands of Taylor's audience. Back-up musicians on the new album include Graham Nash and David Crosby, from Crosby, Stills, Nash and Young.

Taylor is part of a very musical family. His sister, Kate, has released her own album and done well in the field, and brothers Livingston and Alex have also made contributions to rock.

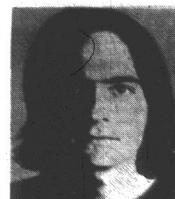

Finally, keeping it in the family, in November of 1972, Taylor married rock star Carly Simon. They live on Martha's Vineyard now.

A strong interest in music is obvious in the Taylor family. James disclaims any particular formal training.

"As far as music is concerned," he says, "it really seems to have happened. When I was younger, I played the cello and took some theoretic music in school, but formal studies never agreed with me, and, for whatever reason, I took up the guitar to my own."

Phoebe Snow, who was to appear as a special guest artist with Taylor, will not be able to attend, it was announced this week.

Taylor's performance, at 8:30 p.m. today, is the second in the pop series for this season's Mississippi River Festival. The next rock group will be Blood, Sweat & Tears on July 8, with Caravan.

JAMES TAYLOR, popular rock recording artist, who will appear at 8:30 tonight at the Mississippi River Festival.

TV ads
sway
son, 6

By DR. WILLARD
ABRAHAM

Q. Our 6-year-old watches television more than I'd like him to, but the main thing that bothers me is the fact that he's so influenced by the commercials.

He takes them as absolute fact, and often pressures me to buy the products that are advertised. Then he's disappointed because the price on the house and the price in them don't compare with the TV ads.

I'd appreciate your ideas for handling this situation. Perhaps other activities might cut down on his TV watching and looking at programs with him may be helpful. If you watch programs together, you might point out the ways in which some commercials don't tell the truth.

You have a lot of company with this problem. Because the average child sees about 22,000 commercials a year (and many of them affect health and safety). A new organization has started to battle their influence. It's called the Council on Children, Media and Merchandising. I'm sure they'd like to hear from you at 1346 Connecticut Ave., Washington, D.C. 20008.

Q. My wife's handwriting is a mess, and so is my son's. I've tried to teach them to write, but it bothers me just the same. I was brought up with the idea that we write to communicate, and if we do so in a sloppy manner, that's wrong. Do you agree?

A. You said that they seem to communicate well even though their writing is "a mess," so what's the problem? If there is one, it may be with your own compulsiveness rather than their lack of it.

You apparently write neatly, and their personality and style may be perhaps in different directions.

In the field of education we talk about nurturing "individual differences." It's not a bad idea to do it within our families too.

Q. It's nag, nag, nag! My husband won't let our boys alone, to enjoy sports if they like them and not necessarily to always be competitive against others. With our oldest son it was football. With our youngest it's tennis because he's not so husky. If you don't win, you're no good, my husband feels, and that's what he tells them.

I'm surprised they haven't been completely turned off toward these sports, and hopefully they won't be. But his pressure is almost too much for them to bear, I'm afraid.

What do you suggest I do? A. When they do a good job, at sports or anything else, try to compliment them. Remind the idea that all of their efforts aren't worthless. Everyone needs support, and the knowledge that what we do is worthwhile. So, to compensate for his running them down, you might try building them up.

It'd be great if you could control his own aggressive tendencies but you probably can't. He no doubt shows them in his own way and just doesn't realize that personalities, even within the same family, differ a great deal.

You and your sons can win too in ways that are more satisfying to you, not necessarily based on the defeats of others.

Gateway Council endorses transit, highway program

Known collectively as the Transportation Improvement Program, it details capital improvements for 85 highway projects and 13 transit projects that were based on the goals of Gateway Council and those of the Bi-State Development Agency.

The Transportation Improvement Program calls for improvement to 77 miles of roadway, with most of that in the category of roadway.

The Transit Development Program (TDP) and Highway Improvement Program have been endorsed by the board of directors of the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council.

The programs, put together by Gateway Council, Bi-State Development Agency, local and state highway departments, and transportation associations, outline what will be done in the next five years in the areas of highways and the area of transit operations for the St. Louis Region.

resurfacing, new roadway construction, and roadway reconstruction. In addition, safety modifications account for $9.4 million in investment.

The total cost to implement the transit and highway portion of this program will be over $99-million dollars over the next five years. Project costs in Missouri will be $65 million, and in Illinois will cost $34 million to complete.

The transit plan will include a listing of all proposed routes; changes to the existing bus lines; special bus stops and bus stops; and the equipment required to implement them, such as new buses and bus shelters.

The estimated cost for the transit projects for the next five years is $16 million.

Funding for the highway improvement projects comes from federal, state and local sources.

The TDP is funded by money from the Urban Mass Transportation Administration, funds from the state of Illinois, a sales tax from the state of Missouri, and fares from bus riders.

One-half of a cent on every gallon of gasoline sales tax collected in the city and county of St. Louis goes to the TDP. This is to expire in December of this year, however, and the legislature has not yet extended it beyond the December expiration date. But revenue must continue from some source if the entire TDP is to be carried out.

In its recommendation, the board said the implementation of the program will help to create a St. Louis region an adequate transportation system to meet existing and future regional transportation demands.

Programs such as the TDP and highway improvement will be reviewed and updated annually to reflect changing needs and priorities and the results of implementation.

GRAN INDIAN INVASION? No, but downtown Granite City was swarming with Indians this weekend as the Cahokia Mounds Indian Dancers prepared to perform during the Ethnic Festival. Tighten child abuse laws

Legal immunity will be provided for all citizens who report suspected child abuse and neglect cases to the state Department of Children and Family Services as a result of legislation signed by Gov. Dan Walker.

The law, which takes effect July 1, also adds "sexual abuse" and "mental injury" to the conditions subject to reporting and raises the age limit for suspected abuse victims from 16 to 18 years of age.

Mary E. Leahy, DCFS director, explained the provisions of the new "Abused and Neglected Child Reporting Act," spoken by Sen. Phillip Rock (D-Chicago), assistant majority leader.

She said a unique feature of the new law is that it will allow a physician to retain a child in a hospital under "temporary protective custody" while DCFS investigates the circumstances of the abusive incident.

Mrs. Leahy said a main reason for recommending legal immunity for reporting by neighbors, relatives, and other citizens is to enable the department to become active in child abuse cases before injuries, or harm to children become so severe as to call for reports from doctors or medical persons.

The new law retains most of the features of the original child abuse act passed by the General Assembly in 1965 and amended several times since.

According to Mrs. Leahy, about 2,000 cases of suspected child abuse have been reported under the current law in the fiscal year ending June 30. Fifty-one deaths have been recorded.

She said the reporting rate has doubled since September, 1973, when the law was changed to mandate reports from school personnel, police, social workers, day care operators, and others, as well as in addition to doctors and hospital officials.

The 1973 legislation was also sponsored by Rock.

Mrs. Leahy said the department expects another significant increase in reported child abuse cases as a result of enactment of the new law.

DCFS is required to investigate all suspected child abuse incidents within 24 hours.

In some situations, the department petitions the court for custody so that the child can be placed in a foster home. When possible, counseling and other social services are made available to the family to achieve enough stability so that the safety of the child will be assured if he returns home.

Mrs. Leahy said the Rock legislation will bring the Illinois statute into harmony with requirements of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare for receiving federal funds for treatment and prevention of child abuse and neglect.

She said prompt action by the General Assembly, coupled with a decision to make the law effective July 1 instead of Oct. 1 as originally scheduled, has made DCFS eligible for an additional $118,000 in federal funds in the current fiscal year.

Mrs. Leahy said the department is making available a pamphlet giving a comparative analysis of the old and new child abuse statutes. Copies may be obtained by writing to the DCFS Office of Community Relations, 524 South Second St., Springfield, Illinois 62706.

Charge burglary

Randy Reyes, 17, of 2442 Adams St., was arrested at 3:20 p.m. Monday and charged with burglary.

In some situations, the burglar usually was among those who stole a record turntable from the home of Andrea King, 2211 Delmar Ave., June 24.

While Reyes was in Granite City, he was using an interview by detectives, it was alleged a wallet was broken into several pieces. Reyes also was charged with destruction of city property.

CAR STRIKES POLE

Peggy Morris, 32, of 712 Old Alton Road, was admitted to St. Elizabeth Hospital and Chastity Jackson, 6 months old, a passenger in her car, was released after a hospital examination, following an accident at 8:05 p.m. Saturday in which the Morris car left the roadway on Foag Road, the eastern end of Chastity Avenue, and, with a shell, went into a drainage ditch and struck a utility pole. The driver suffered a head injury.

INDIAN DANCING by the Cahokia Mounds Indian Dancers was among the live entertainment provided during the annual International Ethnic Festival in Heubner said all major work has been completed, but of the 497 changes the state recommended, 381 have been completed with 118 more continuing on 16 other recommendations.

Heubner said all buildings in the district have been remodeled to some extent so that the safety of the students is insure. He said this year included installation of fire walls, smoke partitions, fire escapes, fire-rated ceilings and a revamping of fire alarm systems.

Patricia Gonwa, a junior high school counselor who evaluated the reading laboratory at Grigsby Junior High School, told the board that he is requesting extension of time for 13 students in the schools to meet the requirements of the state's life-safety program.

Patricia Gonwa, a junior high school counselor who evaluated the reading laboratory at Grigsby Junior High School, told the board that he is requesting extension of time for 13 students in the schools to meet the requirements of the state's life-safety program.

The board approved this and other recommendations made, which included equipping the reading laboratory with a larger assortment of materials; evaluating the laboratory during the 1975-76 school year and extending the program to Grigsby and Franklin Junior High Schools if the evaluation is positive.

The reading laboratory was used as a pilot program at Grigsby to help improve reading achievement, to generate student appreciation for reading, to improve attitude toward school and thereby improve school attendance.

Vasil Estimoff, director of pupil personnel services, reported that the three cultural programs in the school district for the 1975-76 school year determined 219 potential illnesses from the 3,012 throat illnesses examined. He said the program cost $1,310.

Concerning health education, Owen E. Heubner, curriculum coordinator for the district, reported to the board that curriculum changes must be made in the junior high schools for the district to continue to meet the needs.

He said physical education teachers may no longer take physical education class time to teach health education. This system meets neither physical education nor health education needs, he said.

Humphrey suggested the two-year junior high program be reorganized so that health education may be offered with a full staff and without infringing upon other programs.

The board also was told that the vocational Building Trades Program has sold its first house and is working on its second.

Free lunch guidelines revised

Superintendent of Education Joseph M. Cronin has released the economic guidelines for free and reduced price lunches and breakfasts for Illinois students during the 1975-76 school year.

The new guidelines raise the minimum family income levels allowable for children to qualify for free or reduced price lunches.

Cronin noted that more than one million Illinois children eat lunch each day in public school lunch programs. Of those, he said, one-third receive free lunches.

The higher qualifying income levels in each program will help offset inflationary effects of the past year, he said.

"I am very concerned about rising costs of food and labor, which in turn are forcing school districts to raise lunch prices," Cronin said. "Good nutrition is an essential prerequisite to learning," the state superintendent added.

Under the reduced price meal guidelines in place in Illinois schools, the maximum price charged for a lunch is 20 cents.

The new income-level guidelines are:

Family size, one, free $3.25; reduced $4.50; three, $4.20 and $5.80; three, $5.25 and $7.35; four, $5.20 and $8.70; five, $7.10 and $10.00; six, $8.10 and $10.70; seven, $8.50 and $11.30; eight, $9.70 and $13.20; nine, $10.50 and $14.70; ten, $11.30 and $15.80; twelve, $12.00 and $16.80; twelve, $12.80 and $17.80. For each additional member, the schedule is increased $750 for free meals and $1,050 for reduced cost.

The state education office said that in applying the guidelines, each authority must consider both the income of the family during the past 12 months and the family's current rate of income to determine which is the better indicator of need for free or reduced price meals.

Open branch office of Madison County Federal Ribbon cutting ceremonies were held last week celebrating the opening of a second location for Madison County Federal Savings on Route 159 at Cottonwood Station Road in Glen Carbon. The savings and loan association's head office is at 3214 Nottawa Road.

Madison County Federal president, A. H. Froemling, cut the office opening ribbon, witnessed by civic officials and office manager, Carl P. Specking.

The 1,200 square-foot office is in the Cottonwood Station Office Park. There are four teller stations and a drive-up window will be opened later.

Bill would expand police training

A measure which would allow the state to expand its present law enforcement facilities located south of Springfield has been introduced in the Illinois State Senate by Senator Sam M. Vasko, D-Chicago.

Vasko's proposal, in the form of an amendment to a House Appropriation bill, lets the state purchase an available 106-acre parcel of land adjacent to the Illinois Academy.

It would then be developed into an instructional area which would be used to benefit not only the state police, but the law enforcement community as a whole.

Should this appropriation be approved, the Department of Law Enforcement would use the land as a training facility, and it would include such areas as a driver training range, a mock village, to instruct on criminal investigations, barbed-wire escape problems, hostage situations, and patrol tactics; a civil disturbance training center; and an area for various physical training activities.

Vasko's amendment on the proposal, saying "There is a lawless area in Central Illinois which is in need of additional, up-to-date police service."

This appropriation would allow for that kind of service to be developed. The programs which could be started at the Springfield Academy include:

increasing state and local law personnel become proficient in the modern crime prevention tactics needed in this day and age."

BAC plans insurance workshop

It has requested the Community Services Division of Belleville Area College to assist in sponsoring a national health insurance workshop for this region. The workshop will be open to all people in the community who are interested in learning more about national health insurance.

Lobby Sartor, federal liaison for health programs of the state, will be the speaker at the workshop. The workshop will be on July 9 from 7 to 9 p.m. in Room 1069 at the main campus, Belleville Area College, 2500 Carlyle Ave., Belleville.

Tax audit could mean refund

You have just received a letter from the Internal Revenue Service informing you that your income tax return is under audit.

Your hands become clammy. Perspiration breaks out on your brow. "Why me?" you ask. "What mistakes did I make?"

"You read a little further. The IRS letter points out that your tax return is under audit. This means you are examined for your income, exemptions, and deductions, that an audit does not always result in more tax due, and that selection of a return for examination does not imply dishonesty or suspicion of criminal liability."

The audit letter further explains that in many cases, taxpayers' returns are accepted as filed, or examinations result in a refund.

The IRS is required to collect only the correct tax — no more and no less. But if taxpayers do not substantiate items when requested, the IRS has the right to make an adjustment, which may be incomplete. That is why the taxpayer's cooperation is so important.

Last year, the IRS revised its audit letters to relieve taxpayers of the burden of proving their tax returns are correct.

Some tax payers do indeed receive refunds, not bills, after an audit. One family, for example, received income from a garage business and home supply company and assumed the husband had filed a return showing $2,000 due in taxes. The IRS conducted an audit, found an error in the tax return, and awarded a $1,685 refund.

According to the most recent IRS figures, while audits of individual and fiduciary returns resulted in refunds of $1.2 billion in additional tax paid, audits of $2.2 million in refunds also were recommended in cases where taxpayers did not file a claim for refund.

The possibility of an audit not only helps to keep people honest, but more important, it also reduces the number of errors on tax returns. During the most recent fiscal year, the IRS received 81.6 million individual tax returns.

Some of them were bound to contain errors. But which ones? It would be extravagantly wasteful and time consuming to examine each return. So how does the IRS select returns for audit?

What was needed was a way to pinpoint returns having the greatest need for examination. The IRS studied the problem at great length and found that it could find a relationship between characteristics of information given on a return and the frequency of tax error.

Ultimately, this research led to a computer system which assigned weights to various items on a return and the relationship between these items. Complex mathematical formulas were devised and the system was dubbed the "DIF" for short.

Today, this system is applied to all individual tax returns as they flow through the computer processing. DIF is a system which does not reward a "high" deduction here or a "low" income figure there, but to how a whole group of figures appears together on a return. The single score for each return leads to a single score for each return. Returns having high scores are candidates for audit.

Backtracking the computers are experienced IRS employees who look at returns selected by DIF to determine which items, such as real estate taxes, would justify unusually high deductions, perhaps eliminating the need for an audit.

Ultimately, the economic and other components play a big role in the figures appearing on tax returns, the IRS regularly conducts studies to update DIF formulas. In fact, some returns, perhaps some, are selected for audit randomly to help make sure that DIF is doing its job.

In addition to using DIF and random sampling, the IRS may also pick returns because they are related to ones already being examined. For example, members of a family of three with a gross annual income of $8,940 would be considered eligible, according to new legislation.

Under the new legislation, which takes effect in 1989, the IRS will also make available to the general public a report of audit results. The report will be made available to the public for review and comments.

placing children in intensive therapy.

Four of the services — community education (for delinquents and offenders, available community resources), and protective services for adults and children (mainly counseling and alternative living arrangements) — also will be made available to the general public at no charge.

Additional persons may be eligible for social services under the new legislation because of limited incomes. For example, members of a family of three with a gross annual income of $8,940 would be considered eligible, according to new legislation.

The new legislation also requires that a summary of the plan be made available to the public for review and comments.

Price backs bills to upgrade GI education

Cong. Melvin Price announced that he is supporting three bills in the House of Representatives to upgrade the GI Education Bill for Vietnam Era veterans.

The Illinois lawmaker's three proposals as the type of legislation which will remove today's veteran from the "casualty list" of the Vietnam era.

The first bill would provide for a tuition grant for veterans for a part of tuition on courses that exceed the national tuition average. Essentially, the measure is designed to equalize educational opportunities for all veterans, regardless of the state in which they reside, by closing the gap in buying power for GI dollars in states with high tuition costs.

"For example, the average tuition in California is $1,200 a year, while in Pennsylvania, it is $880 a year — yet, the veteran in both of these states receives the same educational assistance," said Price. "This legislation would correct this."

The second bill would enable a veteran to accelerate his entitlement to receive a greater monthly subsistence allowance while reducing his total entitlement proportionately. This provision would enable many

Assembly action on port, SIUE, assessment, malpractice

Nearly every Illinois legislative session deals with so many topics that results both please and disappoint the taxpayer public. The most recent 1975 General Assembly was no exception, starting with its hectic deliberations in January to choose a House speaker and ending with many nearly-all-night June meetings to decide controversial issues.

From many Quad-Citians' viewpoint, there was hearty approval for affirmative Assembly action to separate the two Southern Illinois Universities, extend senior citizen tax relief, establish malpractice suit limitations, reform rape laws and, in some instances, bypass grand jury proceedings.

Legislators also received high marks for voting to underwrite a pay-for-itself bulk terminal at the Tri-City Regional Port, authorize the Port to seek designation as a duty-free zone, set a statewide property assessment target of one-third of value, extend interest rate limits, reform Illinois State Fair controls and end the situation in which many areas lack fire protection.

Negative aspects of legislators' scorecard included failures to divide the East Side Levee and Sanitary District, to ratify the Equal Rights Amendment, to tighten gun control and to require life sentences against those convicted of third felonies.

Most in area of local university want it to be autonomous

Editorial opposition at Edwardsville to the bill dividing SIU-Edwardsville from SIU-Carbondale perhaps needs to be placed in perspective.

Maybe it does reflect the thinking of a few in Edwardsville, but it could hardly be said to represent the feelings of a majority of those involved in the local university.

Insight into the "hometown" stand against an autonomous university is afforded by realization that some newspaper chains enforce publication of identical commentaries on certain subjects in all of their papers.

The chain that includes Edwardsville also has publications in such college towns as Carbondale (SIUC) and Champaign (University of Illinois) and has close ties to such bodies as the Board of Higher Education.

In any case, there is a strong consensus here in the Edwardsville area and elsewhere that Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville can help achieve big administrative gains and also can markedly improve its effectiveness if allowed its own Board of Trustees.

The legislation strongly merits approval by Governor Walker.

Percy doing his 'homework'

Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., is simply doing his "homework" in looking for potential replacement for U.S. Dist. Atty James Thompson of the Northern District of Illinois, his aide explains.

Thompson has been expected to resign to announce his candidacy for the Republican gubernatorial nomination in Illinois, and Percy has been interviewing prospects "in anticipation of a possible opening," the senator's aide said.

According to the aide, Percy apparently had no definite word that Thompson's resignation is imminent, but whether he wanted to be presented with his recommendation to the White House is still under consideration in his office.

Percy's office confirmed that he interviewed three potential replacements for Thompson: Samuel K. Skinner, Thompson's first deputy; J. Terrance Brunner, executive director of the Illinois Department of Civic and Robert J. O'Rourke, deputy attorney general of Illinois.

Skinner, according to some accounts, is said to be the prime contender.

Percy has followed this custom in nominations to the federal bench, but whether he will in a nomination for federal attorney is still under consideration in his office.

Coal research in Illinois

A proposed coal research center for Illinois is under way in Carbondale, the joint effort of Congressmen Sidney R. Yates of Chicago and Paul Simon of Carbondale and Lt. Gov. Neil Hartigan.

Yates is chairman of the House Appropriations Committee's Interior Subcommittee, which has approved a $1.5 million request from Simon and Hartigan for a coal utilization and extraction plant at the University of Illinois at Carbondale.

The funding request will now go to the full appropriations committee for approval. An aide to Yates pointed out that the full committee generally acts favorably on subcommittee requests.

Hartigan is chairman of the Abandoned Mines and Land Reclamation Council and vice-chairman of the Illinois Coal Development Advisory Council. Simon and Hartigan confirmed in Washington with Bates, requesting the subcommittee chairman to seek congressional approval of $1.5 million for a Bureau of Mines and Minerals coal research project in Southern Illinois.

Yates readily agreed to push the long-delayed proposal.

The Simon 24th District Democrat, who is pushing on the subcommittee action, said SIUC will provide campus facilities for the center, which will study both the extraction and use of coal for this facility.

Hartigan was optimistic after the subcommittee voted its "mark-up" session to approve the center, virtually assuring passage of funds by the full House. "The lieutenant governor said in the joint statement released in the Washington Simon is his predecessor as lieutenant governor.

Without Simon, Hartigan was joined in a statement by Hartigan, who said Simon "has worked hard to develop support for the coal research center in Congress."

He was joined in a statement by Hartigan, who said Simon "has worked hard to develop support for the coal research center in Congress."

Without Simon, Hartigan

added, the center would have been "just an idea in search of funding."

Simon was equally laudatory of Hartigan's efforts to get the center for Illinois.

"We in Southern Illinois want to do our part and be applauded for our work in convincing Congressman Yates of the need for this facility."

Opium smuggling a Percy target

Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., wants an explanation of the reported failure of the Justice Department and Central Intelligence Agency to cooperate in an investigation of a $2.5 million opium smuggling operation.

Percy wrote to U. S. Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi and CIA Director William E. Colby in his role as ranking member of the Senate Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations.

Percy wants them to explain "deeply disturbing" news reports that the Justice Department and the CIA refused to surrender Khamphuwan's record and the Justice Department was unable to obtain CIA cooperation.

Percy reminded them that the subcommittee is holding hearings on the effectiveness of federal drug law enforcement, with emphasis on federal failure to curb the foreign drug trade.

Writing to Levi, Percy said the subcommittee "may have to expand its examination of federal drug law enforcement if it is determined that the CIA, in fact, obstructed or otherwise impeded a prosecution of drug traffickers."

He called upon Levi to give him a "detailed explanation of the events surrounding the Justice Department's investigation of the Khamphuwan case."

Percy specifically wants to know "what the case was dropped, and to what degree" the Justice Department prodded the CIA to do so.

Percy called for information on "all contacts between the two agencies" or any other agency or individual, as well as copies of all correspondence, memoranda and other writings dealing with the case.

"In addition," he wrote Levi further, "I would like to know if the issue was ever raised with the White House by the Justice Department, and with whom, and what determinations were made there."

In his letter to CIA Director Colby, Percy found it "extraordinary that federal prosecutors attempting to control this illicit trade cannot obtain the cooperation of a foreign government in prosecuting individuals taking part in a massive drug conspiracy."

Percy specifically wants to know "what the case was dropped, and to what degree" the Justice Department prodded the CIA to do so.

Symptoms of herbicide damage

By DALE A. LAW
U. of I Extension Adviser

There have been many reports of soybeans being injured by Roundup, Sevin, or Lorsone in Illinois this year. Can you distinguish the symptoms of injury from these herbicides from atrazine carry-over? You can't on soybeans, but you can on young corn and on morning-glory. These herbicides all act as photosynthesis inhibitors, which block food production.

The symptoms from root uptake are "all yellowing" or when the food reserve from the cotyledons have been depleted. The lower leaves — paired unifoliates — begin to yellow and mottle, and the outer edges begin to die. Then the new leaves begin to appear, the new leaves (which are trifoliate ones).

However, all apparent injury is not from root uptake. Some appears to be leaf uptake, caused by "splash-burn" of delayed application, or drift. "Splash-burn" results from heavy rains that splash soil plus herbicide onto the leaves of the soybeans. Delayed application of the herbicide, when soybeans are emerging will also cause severe injury.

The symptom of foliar uptake is a contact burn, or brown spotting of the leaves. The older, top leaves often show this effect, while the new growth appearing after the incident will be quite green.

A complicating factor in diagnosis is that thrips (a small sucking insect) are feeding on the soybeans in southern Illinois.

These antagonize the herbicide injury by sucking on the new top leaves of the soybeans and drawing food supplies from the plant that are needed to overcome the effect of the photosynthetic inhibitors. Other complicating factors are weather, disease, or multiple herbicide application. Cool, cloudy weather has limited food production by the soybeans. There are root rots (phytophthora and rhizocinia) on some of the soybeans. There are also some other diseases, such as septoria and possibly bacterial blight.

The big questions are:

1. Is crop control necessary?

The crop alone have rarely limited soybean yields and control has rarely been profitable.

2. Should I replant the soybeans? That can only be determined after closely inspecting the field, determining the final stand and likely survival rate. Soybeans have a large ability to compensate after early injury, and the ability to survive after late planting and still provide a respectable yield.

As long as green buds are present at any node (cotyledon, unifoliate, or trifoliate) and the roots are healthy, the likelihood of survival is great.

If the roots are injured, will the soybeans reappear? It is possible, but not likely. The symptom doesn't usually appear until about three weeks after planting. Thus, if the second crop from the six weeks will have elapsed after herbicide application for break-down of the herbicide.

4. Will I have weed control if I tear up the old stand and replant? This will depend on the amount of soil disturbance and the quality of untreated soil and weed seeds turned up. A minimum of soil disturbance is recommended. Some farmers are splitting the centers or planting a new row of soybeans between rows to be replanted between. They will decide which row to keep at cultivation. If weed control is adequate, some will keep both rows — even though there will be a maturity difference.

The growing point of corn is located below the surface of the soil for about three weeks (or six fully expanded leaves) after the corn emerges. This point is therefore protected from damage by hail or herbicides. Plants damaged by these factors will recover if good growing conditions prevail after the damage.

The growing point of the soybeans plant is above ground as soon as the seedling emerges. However, new stems will develop at any undamaged one of the bottom four to five leaf axils. This includes the node where the cotyledons were attached.

As with corn, the soil mixture and temperatures must be favorable for growth following damage.

The decision of whether to replant should be delayed for several days after the damage. It is usually better to leave the damaged crop than to replant, unless the stand reduction is severe.

Migrant ministry by local teenagers

Changing dozens of diapers, working with toddlers, caring for pre-head Start children, and working with Head Start directors when many of them spoke another language made a lasting impression on a group of young people from the Nameekoski Presbyterian Church.

The 11 teenagers and their sponsors participated in the migrant Ministry program designed to serve a large number of Spanish-American families who follow the crops as day laborers.

The group spent a week in Burlington, Colo., with their leaders, the Rev. and Mrs. Don F. Pierson, and Larry Lockhart that month.

Prior to beginning the week, an orientation was provided by the director of the Colorado Ministry Council and the local leader of the children's program, which included classroom instruction to age 14 as well as the day care nursery, the toddler, pre-Head Start and Head Start program.

Each day the young people began with bus rides leaving at 5:45 a.m. to begin picking up the Spanish-American children, many of whom spoke English. The teenagers then worked in the widely scattered program as volunteer aides.

Evenings were used in hearing from and sharing with migrant families, talking with a sugar beet grower employing migrants, learning of the work

Three youths were arrested this week and are to appear before a Granite City juvenile officer in connection with a weekend break-in at the Washington Theater, 1336 N. Belmont, which was discovered at 4:45 p.m. Sunday.

The theater manager alleged finding a 13-year-old Madison boy in the rear storage area of the theater. He called police who identified the boy and asked Madison police department to search for his acquaintances.

Madison police arrested two boys in Madison a few minutes later and brought two boys, ages 12 and 13, to the Granite City Police Department for questioning.

Police allege the boys related they were looking for something to do and they climbed the fire

They said they noticed the skylight had been broken and saw a rope hanging down into the theater. They decided to investigate and climb down the rope, but were unable to get back up the rope, they told police.

Searching for a way to get out, the older boy climbed up an old brick fence into the rear storage area, but was unable to get out, officers were told.

The other boys went into the adjoining dental laboratory and broke out a rear air vent to escape, they said.
